NEW YORK (April 17, 2018) -- Altice USA (NYSE: ATUS), one of the largest broadband communications and video services providers in the United States, today announces the establishment of its Altice USA News division, a business unit designed to focus on the continued development and growth of the company's news properties. The Altice USA News group includes the U.S. division of international news and current affairs network i24NEWS and the hyperlocal News 12 Networks, which serves local communities in the New York tri-state area.

The newly formed division will be led by Altice USA's Michael Schreiber in the role of EVP and President of Altice USA News, reporting to Co-President and CFO Charlie Stewart. Schreiber previously served as the company's chief content officer leading all programming-related developments and agreements, including the negotiation of carriage deals for i24NEWS in the U.S., where the network is currently available on Charter/Spectrum, Mediacom, and Altice USA's Optimum and Suddenlink systems.

"In today's world, access to reliable, high-quality news is absolutely vital, which makes i24NEWS and News 12 an incredibly important part of the Altice USA portfolio," said Mr. Stewart. "The establishment of a content-focused news organization under Michael will only help to strengthen our news properties and focus on their continued growth and development."

Mr. Schreiber added: "i24NEWS and News 12 are already very strong and successful news organizations among their core audiences, and I am excited to be onboard to bring both networks to the next level with a focus on expanding audience reach, enhancing digital products, and further capitalizing on advertising potential."

Prior to joining Altice USA, Schreiber worked in content acquisition at Comcast and in network distribution and local ad sales at NBCUniversal. He also assisted in the founding, development and launch of Hulu.

Altice USA's current Chief Procurement Officer, Yossi Benchetrit, will assume responsibility for the company's programming activities. As Chief Procurement and Programming Officer, Benchetrit will be responsible for all strategy, management and procurement of goods and services for the company, including oversight of the Procurement, Programming, Real Estate and Corporate Administration functions, with a focus on developing strategic partnerships. He reports to Altice USA Chairman and CEO, Dexter Goei.

Within the Altice USA News division, Patrick Dolan will serve as Senior Network Advisor of News 12 and will report to Schreiber. Additionally, Schreiber will work closely with Frank Melloul, CEO of i24NEWS, who will continue to lead the i24NEWS organization and its three channels globally.
